My ancestors had been _____ a small room behind a wall to hide the fleeing slaves. Though they tried to conceal the door, it was _____ than the rest of the wall. The first time people were hidden in the room, they were followed by an official who had _____ them for miles. When he came to the house, he became suspicious about the wall. My great-great-great-grandmother Anne distracted the man by offering him a _____ piece of apple pie and a hot _____ on her best plate, with a cool drink of cider in the mug. He said the refreshments were _____ for a king, and apologized for being a _____ before he left the house. The runaways were safe, thanks to Anne's quick thinking and _____ ways!
