

Indefinite pronouns

Indefinite pronouns

Pronouns ending in -one or -body are used to refer to people.

Example

Everyone is ready to go.

Pronouns ending in -thing are used to refer to things.

Example

Everything had gone silent.

Pronouns ending in -where are used to refer to places that you do not know.

Example

I've looked everywhere for it.

НЕОПРЕДЕЛЕННЫЕ МЕСТОИМЕНЕНИЯ

Somebody

кто-то, кто-нибудь

Someone

кто-то, кто-нибудь

Something

что-то, что-нибудь

Утверждения.
Вопрос, выражающий просьбу или предложение.

Anybody

кто-нибудь, всякий, любой (никто)

Anyone

кто-нибудь, всякий,
любой (никто)

Anything

что-нибудь, все (ничто)

Вопросы. Утверждения.
Отрицательные
предложения при отрицательной форме глагола.

Nobody

никто

No one никто

Nothing

ничто, ничего

Отрицательные
предложения при
утвердительной форме глагола.

1

Choose the correct word.

- I don't want _____ to eat, thanks.
- Suzie lives _____ near the park, I think.
- We went to David's place but there was _____ at home.
- Can you meet me? I've got _____ important to tell you.
- I'm on my own today. _____ has gone out.
- I can't find my keys _____.

2

Complete the rules in the grammar table with the words in the box.

negative places people affirmative things

- We use someone/no one/everyone/anyone to talk about _____.
- We use something/nothing/everything/anything to talk about _____.
- We use somewhere/nowhere/everywhere/anywhere to talk about _____.
- We use the pronouns starting with some- and every- in _____ sentences.
- We use the pronouns starting with no- and any- in _____ sentences.
I haven't got anything to do.
I've got nothing to do.