When Conway, Parker and Ben opened the entrance, they found a long tunnel which went to the heart of the pyramid. At the end of the tunnel, there was a tomb - the tomb of Pharaoh Dinkem. It was full of the most incredible treasure!

As soon as Conway and Parker finished their exploration of the tomb, they immediately prepared to return to Britain. Once again, they were on board the ship Beatrice. They took a lot of boxes full of Pharaoh Dinkem's treasure with them. One of the boxes was the box from Ben's tent, and in it was the little statue of the Pharaoh.

While Conway and Parker examined some of the precious objects in the tomb, Ben found a small statue of a Pharaoh. 'There's lots of treasure in this tomb,' thought Ben. 'Nobody's going to know that I took this statue. It's only small.' So he secretly put the statue in his pocket. He didn't see the inscription on the bottom of the statue.

More than 150 years ago, the famous British archaeologist John Conway, his friend, Parker, and Parker's son, Ben, went to the Valley of the Kings. They wanted to find the secret pyramid of Pharaoh Dinkem. They knew it was near, but where exactly? Finally, Conway discovered the entrance.

More than 150 years later, a team of divers decided to look for the extraordinary Egyptian treasure. They found the ship Beatrice near the coast of Spain. One of the divers, a girl called Lisa, discovered part of the treasure...

That night Ben slept badly, and the next morning, he had a terrible fever. His father found a doctor. The doctor examined him but there was nothing he could do. At four o'clock in the afternoon, Ben died. Nobody understood why he died.

One night at sea, there was a terrible storm. Lightning hit the ship and destroyed it. The ship sank and Conway, Parker and the rest of the crew on the Beatrice died. Pharaoh Dinkem's treasure went to rest at the bottom of the sea.
