They've been there for 100 years

a Listen to the conversation and follow in your book. Who are the people and places in the photos?

Nadia's relatives moved to England from Poland many years ago. Luke's asking her about them.

LUKE: How long has your family been in England, Nadia?

NADIA: Oh, for ages! Since the 1940s. My great-grandparents came here during the war. So I've lived here all my life.

LUKE: Have you still got relatives in Poland?

NADIA: Yes, we have. We went to visit them about ten years ago. We haven't seen them for a long time now, but we keep in touch by email. I've got relatives in the USA too.

LUKE: Have you?

NADIA: Yes. Thousands of people from Eastern Europe emigrated to the USA. Some of my relatives moved there from Gdańsk in about 1900. They started a business in New York. They've been there for over 100 years now. We've never met them, but I'd love to visit them one day.

LUKE: And haven't you got an uncle in Canada?

NADIA: That's right – Mum's brother, Otto. She hasn't seen him since he left England, but they've written to each other every month for the last 12 years!
