UN Women ad series reveals widespread sexism

A series of ads, developed as a creative idea for UN Women by Mamac Ogilvy & Mather Dubai, uses genuine Google searches to reveal the widespread prevalence of sexism and discrimination against women. Based on searches dated 9 March, 2013 the ads expose negative sentiments ranging from stereotyping as well as outright denial of women's rights.

"When we came across these searches, we were shocked by how negative they were and decided we had to do something with them," says Christopher Hunt, Art Director of the creative team. The idea developed places the text of the Google searches over the mouths of women portraits, as if to silence their voices.

"The ads are shocking because they show just how far we still have to go to achieve gender equality. They are a wake up call, and we hope that the message will travel far," adds Kareem Shuhaibar, copy writer.

For UN Women, the searches confirm the urgent need to continue making the case for women's rights, empowerment and equality, a cause the organization is pursuing around the world. UN Women is heartened by the initial strong reaction to the ads and hopes they will spark constructive dialogue globally.

Different Books

This book here on the table is very important because it helped me learn good things - it is called 'The Book of Life'. I don't like that book there on the desk because it doesn't have much information - it is called 'The Magic Formula'. 'The Book of Life' is much more comprehensive and useful. 'The Magic Formula' seems to be unrealistic and full of mistakes - even spelling mistakes.

For me, it's obvious that these books are completely different and I think the authors have different opinions about almost everything. It's one of those situations that makes you wonder why people and things can be so different sometimes. But that's life.

1. What is the name of the book mentioned in the text?

- a) The Blue eyes
- b) Pride and Prejudice
- c) The house
- d) The book of life

2. Why doesn't the narrator like the book on the desk?

- a) Because it's boring.
- b) Because it has a lot of information
- c) Because there is no information
- d) Because it has a lowercase letter

7º Assista o video da música This Boys – The Beatles (Verifique os pronomes demonstrativos presentes e responda a questão abaixo:

Na música This Boy, dos Beatles, temos dois pronomes demonstrativos usados indicando a mesma palavra, boy:

That boy took my love away

He'll regret it someday

But this boy wants you back again

That boy isn't good for you

Though he may want you too

This boy wants you back again

Mas os pronomes demonstrativos fazem a diferença na interpretação do texto, mesmo usando apenas boy. Qual o significado?

- a) Na verdade, o cantor está falando dele mesmo;
- b) Com o that, o cantor está indicando outro menino (boy). This está indicando ele mesmo ou outra pessoa que está próximo dele;

c) O that e o this nesse caso tem o mesmo significado: o cantor está falando de outra pessoa e apenas uma pessoa;

d) That é plural e a letra está errada. Deveria ser those.
