0	\bigcirc	A river is a large stream of fresh water that flows into another river, a lake or the ocean. Rivers are important because they give people clean water and food.

6	A city is a place where lots of people live and work. Each country in the world has a capital city. The capital city is usually the most important city in a country.

G	0	A waterfall is a place where water
		from a river, stream or melting ice
		drops down from a high place.
		Some waterfalls are very high,
		while others have only a short drop
		Many tourists like to visit waterfalls.

- A mountain is part of the Earth that rises up very high from the land around it. Most mountains are found in long lines called ranges.

 As you climb up a mountain, the air becomes colder. It is so cold at the top of some mountains that they are always covered in snow, even in the summer.
 - A building is a place made by people that has walls and a roof. There are lots of different types of buildings. People use them to live in, work in, worship in and learn and play in.
 - A desert is a dry place where it hardly ever rains. Many deserts are made of sand but others are covered in stones and rocks.

 There is very little water in deserts, so only a few plants and animals can live there.
