

Natural Science

Energy: sources of energy

It is pumped from the Earth at oil wells.

They run out when we use them.

They are renewed and don't run out.

It is pumped from the Earth at gas wells.

It is a black rock found under the ground.

Solar panels capture the sunlight and convert it to electricity.

Wind turbines capture its power and convert it to electricity.

It is stored in reservoirs.

Oil

Natural gas

Coal

Wind

Water

Renewable energy

Non-renewable energy

Sun