Task 4. Reading

/6x3=18 points/

Read the article about endangered species. Choose the correct answer A, B, C, D or E :

In today's world, thousands of plants and animals are in danger of extinction, and the number of species at risk increases every year. Not all plants or animals existing in small numbers are endangered as their population may not be decreasing or threatened. An endangered species is one which is expected to die out within twenty years unless special measures are taken to protect it. Endangered animals include blue whales, giant pandas, orangutans, rhinoceroses, snow leopards, tigers, and some species of crocodile. Endangered plants include some species of cactus.

Why are the above species of animal endangered? There are now legal limits on hunting, but not all species are protected by law. Even when animals are legally protected, illegal hunting for fur, tusks and horn continues. Those animals that are not killed are captured and sent to zoos or sold as pets. For example, the little blue macaw, a parrot native to Brazil, has been captured in such numbers for private bird collectors that it is almost extinct in the wild. In addition to this, many species' habitats are eliminated when people clear land in order to build on it, or when they introduce domestic and non-native animals which overgraze the vegetation and even prey on birds and mammals which are already at risk of extinction.

Why is it important to save endangered species? Firstly, nature is delicately balanced, and the extinction of one species may have a serious effect on others. Secondly, it is the fault of mankind that so many species are endangered, so it is our responsibility to protect those species while we still can. We must stop the hunting of wild animals and the destruction of the forests before it is too late. It is worth making an effort - by saving endangered species we could be saving ourselves.

32. According to the text,

- A. blue whales have become extinct.
- B. only animal species are seriously threatened.
- C. all animals and some plants are threatened.
- D. more and more species become endangered each year.
- E. all plants and animals are expected to die out in 20 years if we don't take some measures.

33. The author wonders why all the species mentioned are in danger because

- A. all species are protected by laws.
- B. illegal hunting has been eliminated.
- C. most endangered species are kept in zoos.
- D. extinction of some species may influence other living organisms.
- E. hunting is allowed everywhere nowadays and mankind does not protect them.

34. Endangered animals

- A. are kept only in zoos
- B. have a bad effect on others
- C. will definitely die out soon
- D. are an important part of the world's wildlife
- E. cannot be saved because we need to save ourselves
