

WORKSHEET ACTIVITY
ZERO CONDITIONAL USAGE

We use the zero conditional when we want to talk about facts or things that are generally true.

Reading Comprehension

Read about Marco and match the following statements.

Hi! My name is Marco. I will tell you something about myself. Well, let's start. My routine starts at 7 o'clock with my soccer team. I like to do sports because If I don't do sports, I get bored. I also like Science. I know that if I study Science, I am the future doctor in my family. I love to eat Mexican food and if I eat "tacos Mexicanos", I am really happy. I love that dish. I live with my mother. She likes to listen to music. She says that if she eats vegetables and fruit, she is a healthy woman. If it is summer, my mother and I go to the beach, we love swimming. We also love sweets, but my mother says that if we eat too many sweets, we get fat. Another thing that my mother also says is that if we don't drink enough water, we get sick.

If Marco doesn't do sports

If they eat too many sweets

If Marco eats Mexican tacos,

If Marco studies Science,

If Marco's mother eats fruit
and vegetables,

If Marco and his mother don't drink water,

they get sick.

he gets bored.

they get fat.

she is healthy.

he is happy.

he is the future doctor in his family.

Order the sentences. Start them with "If".

1. /I don't /eat/ I am not happy/ If/, /.

2. /sister/ my /plays /if/ she/ is/ happy/,/.

3. /it /is/ summer/ I go/If/ to the beach/,/.

4. If/ my mother /she /prepares /a delicious soup/ cooks/,/.

GOOD JOB!

P.C.