Commas and Semicolons

Directions: Read the following sentences. Pay attention to comma and semicolon usage. Write "C" if you think the sentence is correct. Write "I" if you think the sentence is incorrect.

1. I live in a democratic country so, I have a say in my government.
2. I live in a democratic country, but sometimes it can feel like my voice isn't powerful.
3. I live in a democratic country and there are ways that I can use my voice.
4. I am part of the US Democracy; therefore, I can vote, run for office, and protest.
5. I am part of the US Democracy consequently, I want to stay informed of the issues that impact me and my community.
6. I am part of the US Democracy; however, it can feel overwhelming to stay informed sometimes.
7. I am part of the US Democracy, it can feel overwhelming to stay informed sometimes.
8. I love semicolons; they add subtle meaning and style to writing.
9. You can use a semicolon in place of a period; make sure the two sentences are closely related.
10. I would love to visit the following places: New Orleans, Louisiana; San Diego, California; Austin, Texas; and Seattle Washington.

LIVEWORKSHEETS