For many teenagers under eighteen years old, the family holiday is _____ only way you can travel unless you go on _____ activity holiday specially for teenagers. So, what can you do to avoid _____ embarrassment of being seen with your parents when you meet _____ other teens on holiday? You could try asking your parents to take you to _____ resort that puts on activities for teenagers. Most hotels offer all sorts of sports activities, such as _____ horse-riding or tennis. Don't despair if you are not _____ sportiest of people. Activity leaders often give _____ art classes or you can learn skills like map reading. _____ best thing about resort holidays is often the evening entertainment. While your parents are watching the traditional dancers, you can go to the disco next door and socialise with people _____ same age as you
