1. Read and answer the questions.

A human walked on the moon for the first time in 1969. His name was Neil Armstrong and he was from the United States.

He stepped onto the moon and said 'One small step for man, one giant leap for mankind.' Another astronaut, Edwin Aldrin, climbed down after him.

They spent two and a half hours on the moon. They collected some moon rocks and they put a United States flag on the moon.

Humans haven't been to any other planets yet, but we have sent small robots to visit Mars.
