II. Read the problems of these people and give them and advice.
What SHOULD they do? ... should ... because ...

Ask Anita!

Dear Anita,

I love to go to shopping malls and department stores. I love to go with my friends from college and we all have a good time – and I think I'm a good shopper because I usually buy things when they are on sale. But I have a big problem: I have a credit card (I got it last month) and I spend too much money. How can I spend less money but still go shopping with my friends? Do you have any ideas?

Judy

Dear Anita,

Anita, my wife and I have been happily married for ten years, but we have a problem. She loves to go window shopping and try on clothes in department stores. She always wants me to go with her because I can give her my opinion about how she looks when she comes out of the fitting room. That's okay, but she takes a very long time to find something she likes. Sometimes she doesn't buy anything! Anita, I prefer to stay home and watch sports on TV. What can I do?

III. Read the problem, CHOOSE 8 items from the list you SHOULD take and GIVE the REASONS.

You and your classmates were flying across the Pacific Ocean, when suddenly your airplane crashed into the water. Fortunately, no one was hurt, and there is a small island nearby. There is some water, and a small jungle on the island, but there are no people.

You only have time to choose EIGHT of the items below before your plane disappears under the water forever. Discuss which things you SHOULD take with you, and give REASONS. (Remember: you may be on the island for many years)

- a soccer ball
- a newspaper
- a big yellow umbrella
- a friendly, but ugly dog
- a broken watch
- a toy rabbit
- a bicycle
- two towels
- one bottle of water
- a winter coat
