It's Saturday evening and I'm camping with Dad. It's cloudy but it's very hot. I'm sitting in the tent next to a little river. This is fun!

It's Sunday morning and I'm writing this in a thunderstorm! It's raining hard and there's thunder and lightning too! This is exciting!

It's Sunday afternoon and the little river is now a big river. It's a flood! We can't walk to the car and we can't swim - it's too dangerous.

This is scary!

It's now Sunday night. I'm cold and I'm tired. The torch isn't working. We haven't got a phone and nobody knows we're here. What's that? It's a helicopter! I'm waving and Dad's waving too - but it's too dark. The pilot can't see us.

Dad's making a fire. The helicopter is coming again. Can the pilot see the fire? Yes! He's flashing his lights. We're safe!
