Realiza una lectura superficial (skimming), intenta identificar "palabras transparentes" y procede a seleccionar la traducción correcta para cada verbo, teniendo en cuenta el "sentido" de cada oración.

The mind of the Renaissance

Leonardo da Vinci was born in April 15, 1452, outside of Vinci, near Mount Albano, in the valley of the Arno River, close to Florence. He grew up during the flourishing period of the Renaissance. He was a painter, a draftsman, sculptor, architect and engineer, a genius with an incredible thirst of knowledge.

As a child he was very intelligent and curious, and he was very quick at arithmetic and music. He learned the lyre and had a wonderful voice. At age 17, he became an apprentice of painting under the instruction of Andrea del Verrochio, in Florence, who was an artist, skilled craftsman, goldsmith, sculptor and painter. He studied and sketched rock formations, caves and fossils. He had very few close friends during his life, even though he was very kind and sympathetic. Later, during his apprenticeship, he started to find his niche at inventing machines like the helicopter, diving suit, and submarine. After he finished his education, he had a great variety of jobs including the design of artillery, and planning river system diversions for the city of Milan. He also made contributions in the fields of anatomy, biology and medicine. On May 2, 1519, the mind of the Renaissance, Leonardo da Vinci passed away .
