

2. She's seeing her mom and her brother.
3. She's seeing her grandparents.

☰ What's happening at Olivia's house on Sunday?

1. She's giving a concert.
2. She's having a sleepover.
3. They're having a cookout.

☰ Who is coming?

1. Her grandparents are coming to visit.
2. Mason and Emily are coming for a cookout.
3. Her brother.

☰ When did Ryan meet them?

1. He saw them at Olivia's birthday party last summer.
2. He met them at school.
3. He met them at Olivia's house.

☰ What's Ryan's problem?

1. Olivia can't pick him up.
2. He can't stand Olivia's cousins.
3. There are no buses to go to Olivia's house.

http://www.letsblog.com/olivia/

 Olivia Hey, Ryan! Are you ready for the weekend? 😊

 Ryan Hi! Yes, I am. I'm playing basketball on Saturday afternoon. It's our last game this season, so we're all going out for a meal to celebrate. The coach is taking us somewhere new. It's a surprise. 😊

 Olivia Maybe it's the new pizza restaurant downtown. I went last week with friends. Everyone loved it! The ice creams are awesome.

 Ryan How about you? Are you doing anything special?

 Olivia Not on Saturday. I have a guitar lesson at 10 a.m. I'm practicing for a concert. And after lunch, I'm seeing my grandparents. My mom's taking me and my brother.

 Ryan And Sunday?

 Olivia That's why I'm messaging you. At lunchtime, we're having a cookout at my house. Do you want to join us? My cousins Mason and Emily are coming. You saw them at my birthday party last summer. Remember?

 Ryan Yes! I really liked them. OK. I'm doing nothing special. But there aren't any buses on Sundays, and my parents are going away for the weekend.

 Olivia That's no problem. I'm sure someone can pick you up. 😊

 Ryan Thanks! See you on Sunday.

 Olivia See you!