A few years ago Manchester United played the Spanish team Deportivo de La Coruña in the Champions League. 	They weren't in Spain. They were in Santiago, the capital of Chile! 	They walked out of the airport and stopped a taxi.
It wasn't possible to fly to La Coruña direct, so they needed to fly to Santiago de Compostela, and then to get a taxi. 	They booked tickets to Santiago on the Internet. 	They checked in at Heathrow Airport at 9.00 p.m. because the flight was at 11.00 at night.
Two Manchester United fans wanted to travel to Spain to see the match. 	When the plane landed they were very surprised! It was morning! 	They asked the taxi driver, 'Where's the match?' The taxi driver answered 'What match?'
