Bagheera, who had eyes and ears everywhere, knew something of this and told _____. Mowgli laughed, but Bagheera went on, 'Open your eyes, Little Brother. Remember that _____ is old and he will not always be the leader of the _____. _____ has taught the younger wolves that a man-cub has no place with them. And soon you will be a man, not a _____.'

'But the wolves are my brothers. Why will they want to send me away?'

'Look at me,' said _____, and Mowgli looked at him hard between the eyes. The big black cat turned his head away quickly. 'That is why,' he said. 'Not even I can look in your eyes. That is why they want to kill you. You are _____. You are a _____.'
