SECTION I
(READING COMPREHENSION)

I. Read following passage from "The New blue Dress" and answer the questions given under it by choosing the correct option.

But the girl continued to wear the same dirty dress. "Her mother is probably not interested in her" the teacher thought. So she bought a bright blue dress and gave it to the little girl. The child took the gift eagerly and rushed home.

The next morning she came to school in the new blue dress, and she was very clean and tidy. She told her teacher, "My mother couldn't believe her eyes when she saw me this morning in my new dress. My father wasn't at home, but he'll see me at supper tonight." She was full of excitement.

When her father saw her in the new blue dress, he was amazed to find that he had a very pretty little girl. When the family ate supper, he was even more amazed to see a cloth on the kitchen table. The family had never used a table cloth before. "We're going to begin to be tidier here," his wife said. "I'm ashamed to be dirty when our daughter is so clean."

After supper, the mother began to wash the kitchen floor. Her husband watched silently for several moments. Then he went outside and began to repair the fence. The next evening, with the family's help, he began to make a garden.

During the following week, the man in the next house watched what his neighbour was doing. And by the end of the week, the man began to paint his house – for the first time in ten years. A few days later, the young minister of a church near Gates Avenue passed these two houses and saw two men working. For the first time he noticed that there was no pavement on Gates Avenue, and no streetlight, and no running water. “People who are trying so hard to make decent homes here deserve help,” the minister thought. He asked some important citizens in the city to help them. A few months later, because of the young minister, there was a pavement on Gates Avenue.
