Language Focus

The adverbs and the adjectives in English Adjectives tell us something about a person or a thing. Adjectives can modify nouns (here: girl) or pronouns (here: she).
Adverbs tell us in what way someone does something. Adverbs can modify verbs (here: drive), adjectives or other adverbs.

adjective	adverb
Mandy is a careful girl.	Mandy drives carefully.
She is very careful.	She drives carefully.

Mandy is a careful driver. This sentence is about Mandy, the driver, so use the adjective.
Mandy drives carefully. This sentence is about her way of driving, so use the adverb.
Most adverbs end in -ly, it is formed by adjective+ly. Some adverbs have irregular forms like followings:

Language note

When you review something, you can use adjectives to describe it.

>> The hotel was nice.
>> the food was bad.
>> The service was terrible.

You can modify (change) the meaning or show the degree of the adjectives by putting adverbs in front of it.

>> The hotel was quite nice. (It was OK.)
>> the food was really bad. (really = very)
>> The service was absolutely terrible. (absolutely = completely)

1. Read the reviews from the Reading section again. Underline the adverb + adjective combination.

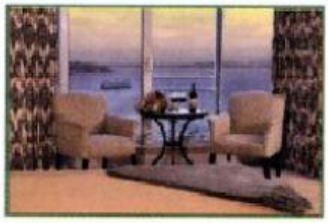
Waterview Inn, Boston, MA

'Great location and great price too!'

Reviewed 14 April 2012 by TwosCompany

My girlfriend and I hadn't stayed in Boston before and were recommended the Waterview Inn by a friend who told us he had always had great service there. Our room was clean, comfortable and good value for money. When we arrived, we were initially disappointed by the size of the room until we opened the curtains to a fantastic view across the harbour, which we would have happily paid a lot more money for!



The hotel is ideally located for sightseeing around Boston. It is next to the Metro, very close to Quincy Market, and the Freedom Trail starts nearby too.

Staff at the hotel were kind, helpful and happy, and because it was quite a small place we felt that we were getting personal service. We'd definitely stay there again.

Value 	Rooms ****
Location *	Cleanliness ****
Sleep Quality	Service ****

1. Would you stay at this hotel? Why?

2. Find five adverb + adjective the reviews and translate them in your language.

initially disappointed =
happily paid = ideally located = starts nearby = definitely stay =
