

Growing fresh food

People all over the world grow fresh food in gardens and on farms. Some gardens are small. Some farms are big. You can grow a garden in the country, in the city, on land, in the water, even on a rooftop! All gardens take work. Gardeners have to work hard to make their gardens grow. They have to dig holes in the soil and plant the seeds. They have to water the plants and weed around the plants. Some gardens grow many kinds of vegetables. Some farms just grow one plant, such as pumpkins, corn, or wheat. Some gardeners just grow flowers!
