My name's Tom. I went to Greece for my holidays. I decided to fly because it is much quicker than going overland. On the morning I left London, it was raining, but when I stepped off the plane in Greece, it was a beautiful day. The sun was shining, and cool wind was blowing from the sea. I took a taxi to my hotel. As I was signing the register, someone tapped me on the shoulder. I turned around. It was Bill, my friend I hadn't seen for ten years. That evening we went for a walk. The town was still very busy. Streets traders were selling souvenirs, and the foreign tourists were trying to bring down the price with the aid of a Greek phrase book. We listened to their chatter for a while, then turned to our hotel.
