b) She started investigating African lions...

c) What happens if lions are on the endangered list?

d) Why do hunters kill African lions?

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing because I am worried about African lions. Their population has decreased in the last 20 years. Now there are only half the lions there were 20 years ago!

One of the biggest problems is that people kill lions to make lion trophies. Last Tuesday, I saw a lion trophy on the wall of a restaurant. I have found out a lot about African lions since last week. One thing I learned was that people in the United States buy a lot of trophies. Hunters and poachers* are killing lions in Africa because people in the U.S. want to hang them on their walls! It's terrible!

Conservation groups want the African lion on the list of endangered animals in the U.S. Then people can't bring lion trophies unto the U.S. Hunters in Africa will stop killing so many lions if they can't sell them for trophies.

Please help the African lions! Please add them to the endangered list.

Best wishes, Ana Kisemo
