Today

A look at what's in the news around the world.

Professor Strange

This popular show is about a man who travels through time and space. Professor Strange (no-one knows his real name) is 1,000 years old, but he looks much younger. Every week, he goes to a different time, or place, meeting aliens and fighting monsters. This is a low-budget British programme, and the special effects aren't as good as big Hollywood films, but the stories are always much more interesting.

The $1,000,000 Quiz

No one has won the big million-dollar prize yet, perhaps because the host, Nick Parsons, asks the most complicated questions on TV. Most contestants leave with nothing.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Star in my car

Neil Smith drives around Los Angeles in a big car. Inside is a camera, and a celebrity! They sing along to the radio. It's not as boring as it sounds. Neil asks much more interesting questions than other presenters ask.

The Sound

Every week, contestants get the chance to sing in front of celebrity singers. Some contestants have got talent – but many haven't. The winner of the show gets a recording contract.

Nutty Antiques

This comedy is about a group of people who work in a shop, selling old furniture. It's far funnier than anything else on TV. The best character is Mrs Macaroon, the cleaner, who breaks everything.

I want to go home!

Ten celebrities are on an island in the middle of nowhere, with no electricity, or network coverage. They have to find their own food and cook it. It's great to see them have arguments – and they often do! All the celebrities want to go home, but you can go online and vote for the celebrity you want to keep on the island!

Old Bernard's Balloon

This is easily the best kid's show on TV. Bernard tells stories about how he flies around in a balloon, meeting his friends Russell the dragon and Jack the parrot. It's beautifully animated.

1- Read the entertainment guide. Mark (T) true, (F) false or, (DS) doesn't say.
