

Write in the verb in parenthesis in the correct tense.

Bel Pesce, who _____ (be born) in São Paulo, Brazil, is a computer scientist and entrepreneur. Since graduating from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), she _____ (work) in large companies such as Google, Microsoft and Deutsche Bank, and _____ (help) launch several start-up companies. After she _____ (write) a bestselling book, she _____ (go on) to write a sequel and with the revenue she set up FazINNOVA, a school that helps people of all ages achieve their dreams.

In this talk she challenges five common ideas about success. She talks about the overlap between people's dreams and the success they achieve, and argues that if people want lasting, and not momentary, success, they need to experience bumps occasionally. Well-known for being single-minded, she _____ (be) named one of the '100 most influential people of Brazil' by Época Magazine.

Bel's wish is that this talk will inspire you, and that in the near future you _____ (live) your dream.