LOOK AT SOME OTHER TRADITIONS AROUND THE WORLD.
COMPLETE WITH THE WORDS GIVEN.

BRIDE / MAN/ TIMES / STREETS/ CAT / MARRY /

Adapted from https://blog.u2guide.com/en/9-cultural-traditions-around-the-world/

Iran

In Iran, if someone offers you something (it can be food, a gift, etc.), you must reject it three 1) _____ before actually accepting what you're being given. Doing it another way is a sign of discourtesy.

Brazil

In one of the Amazonian tribes of Brazil, the Satere-Mawe one, when a boy turns twelve, he becomes a 2) _____by putting his hand in a glove full of bullet ants and letting this exotic insect sting him for 10 minutes. Really, really painful.

Greece

Greece, a very superstitious country. It's usual for greeks to say "piase kokkino" when two people say the same thing at the same time. Something similar happens if someone sees a black 3) _____: he/she must spit three times. If they don't, bad luck will come.

Austria

As a Christmas tradition, In Austria, in contrast to friendly Santa Klaus, a "demon" called Krampus can be seen wandering around the 4) _____to scare little boys who misbehaved. This tradition takes place the first week of December.

Sudan

In Sudan, concretely in the Latuka tribe, it is usual that if a man wants to 5) _____a woman, he will kidnap her. The man can ask for the father's permission first. In case he says no, the man will forcefully marry the woman anyway.

Germany

In Germany before a wedding, polterabend takes place. It's a celebration where relatives crash a bunch of crockery pieces against the ground for the 6) _____and groom to clean them. This action refers to the hard times they will have to get through during the marriage. Anything can be thrown, except for mirrors.

LIVEWORKSHEETS