

LIFE AS A STUDENT

During all my student's life, I had great and bad times. I didn't go to a private school. I studied from kindergarten to university in public schools. Some people say that they aren't very good schools, but I consider myself a well-prepared person even though I studied in public education.

My teachers weren't bad, on the contrary they were very nice people and they were also committed to their job. I learned a lot from them, from my favorite teacher in primary school, I learned to be responsible. From my favorite teacher in high school, I learned to enjoy life, and from my favorite teacher in college, I learned to always do things right since the first time and to greet everybody that enters into a place.

I consider that my favorite stage in education was the university. I didn't go to crazy parties, and I didn't travel with my friends, but I always had a great time with them at the campus. We ate cake, coffee, and chilaquiles. We slept on the grass, and we didn't fail any subjects because we always worked together and helped each other. University wasn't difficult at all, it was nice and calm. Definitely, the best stage of my life.

Answer the next questions.

Why does the author mention that she is a well-prepared person even though she studied in public schools?

- a) Because she thinks public schools are bad
- b) Because she knows most people think public schools are bad.
- c) Because she wants to show off her learning level.

In the second paragraph, the word committed is closest in meaning to:

- a) Careless
- b) Dedicated
- c) Irresponsible

All of the following are things that the author learned during her student's life except:

- a) Enjoy life
- b) Be impolite with people.
- c) Do things well since the first time.

In the second paragraph the word greet is closest in meaning to:

- a) Salute
- b) Farwell
- c) Ignore

"I didn't go to crazy parties, and I didn't travel with my friends, but I always had a great time with them at the campus."

What can be inferred from this phrase?

- a) That the author was a very hyperactive student.
- b) That the author was a very irresponsible student.
- c) That the author was a calm student.

What of the following helped the author not to fail any subject?

- a) Study hard every day.
- b) The support she and her friends gave to each other.
- c) Learn everything seen in school by heart.