

Activity 12

The image below shows several different hardware components of a wearable computing system called Google Glass. Label each component using one of the labels provided on the left.

