Jessica: Hello. I'd like to make an appointment to see Jim on Wednesday afternoon.

Secretary: I'm afraid Mr Jim is¹ then and he's out² until Saturday.

Jessica: Right. How about Monday?

Secretary: He's tied up all day Monday. Would Tuesday suit you?

Jessica: Tuesday? Fine. What sort of time?

Secretary: Well, he's³ until ten o'clock, but he could see you after that. Otherwise in the afternoon he's⁴ but I'm sure he could fit you in.

Jessica: Three o'clock would be great.

Secretary: three. Right. I've made a note of that. I'll call you back to confirm the appointment.

Jessica: Thank you very much.

Thanks for¹ the schedule.

Unfortunately, we² change our plans owing to unexpected problems here at headquarters.

We³ leave on Wednesday 24th as we intended. Instead, we⁴ for Budapest on Thursday 25th on the same flight and returning to Stockholm on the Saturday morning.

The performance evaluation is very important. We want to have at least two full hours for that. The meeting with Ms Koltai⁵ be after that, either later in the day or the day after, whichever is more convenient.

Apart from that, feel free to make any other changes you like. I apologise for the inconvenience this may cause you. Looking forward to⁶ you soon.

Write an e-mail (35-45 words) to all sales staff.

- Inform them of the change of time.
- Encourage everybody to be there.
- Apologise for possible inconvenience.
