ROBOT PETS

iCat

iCat is an intelligent robot which is fun for children and adults. It has a camera in its nose and two microphones in its feet so it can listen and understand voices. It can't walk or chase mice like a real cat but it can play simple board games by telling you where to move the pieces. Also, iCat can change its expression by moving its eyes and mouth. It can show you when it's happy, sad or bored, etc. This way it seems like it has a real personality. It's been shown that people prefer to play games with a robot with a personality than just a computer. It is also very polite and always asks if it's OK for it to go to sleep, for example.

Pleo

Pleo is a small robot dinosaur but it isn't dangerous. It is small, very cute and it behaves like a baby. However, it is very intelligent and it develops a personality the more you play with it. It has two cameras for eyes and it can also touch and hear. It listens to people's voices and makes noises and moves around to show that it understands. You can connect Pleo to your computer and download new actions or sounds. It runs on batteries and goes to sleep when it's tired.

1. The iCat behaves like a real cat. ☐
2. Pleo reacts to human voices. ☐
3. Pleo has to be connected to a computer all the time. ☐
4. Both robot pets have a personality that doesn't change. ☐

WRITING

What do you think of robot pets? Write a paragraph giving your opinion about robot pets. Use the questions to help you.

- Do you think robot pets are better than having a real pet? Why/Why not?
- Which is easier to look after?
- Whine one needs more of your time?
