

Fill in the gaps with the correct Present Simple, Present Continuous, Present Perfect or Present Perfect Continuous Tense forms of the verbs in brackets:

My name is Eric Clayton. I _____ (be) a project coordinator for charity. We _____ (provide) aid to Africa and I usually _____ (spend) about four months in the field. My job _____ (involve) managing our field teams and communicating our aims to government officials.

I _____ (work) in this position for over a year, so I _____ (have) lots of trips so far.

Today I _____ (meet) my colleagues to discuss the design of a new school building. It's a very exciting but at the same time very responsible job.

I sometimes _____ (find) it depressing because there's just so much bureaucracy, and corruption too. But when I return to Africa and I see the results of our work, like new clinics and schools, I _____ (think) it's all worthwhile and I _____ (have) a real sense of achievement.