Indefinite Pronouns

We use Indefinite Pronouns (adverbs) to talk about people, things or places.

People	Things	Places
Somebody	Something	Somewhere
Everybody	Everything	Everywhere
Anybody	Anything	Anywhere
Nobody	Nothing	Nowhere

- We use “some” words and “every” words in positive sentences.
- We use “any” words in negative sentences and questions.
- If an indefinite pronoun (Somebody, Everybody, Anybody or Nobody) is the subject of the sentence, it is singular.
- When we use nobody or nothing, we use an affirmative verb.

Write A, B, or C.

1- All the food is still on the table _____ was hungry today.
A. Everybody B. Nobody. C. Anybody.

2- It is very dark in here. I can’t see_____.
A. Something B. Nothing. C. Anything.

3- I lost my pencil case. It isn’t _____.
A. Anywhere B. Somewhere. C. Nowhere.

4- I bought _____ for Harry. It’s his birthday today.
A. Anything B Something. C. Everything.

5- The test was very easy _____ passed it.
A. Everybody. B. Nobody. C. Somebody

6- Help me clean the floor. There’s trash _____
A. Somewhere B. Nowhere. C. Everywhere

7- There is _____ in this bag. It’s empty
A. Anything. B. Nothing C. Everything

8- I saw your watch _____ in the bathroom.
A. Everywhere B. Nowhere C. Somewhere

9- I can’t find my book. Did _____ take it?
A. Anybody. B. Nobody. C. Everybody.

LIVEWORKSHEETS