1: Where do the friends decide to eat?

Speaker 1: The film doesn't start for an hour. Let's eat somewhere – how about your uncle's restaurant?

Speaker 2: I hate to say it, but his place is really [ ] inside and the [ ] aren't friendly. Anyway, we should sit outside in the [ ]! Why don't we go to the park café?

Speaker 1: We could, but they don't have hot food there. I know, let's try that new place near the cinema. You help yourself to whatever you want and pay at the end. It's not expensive.

Speaker 2: Fine.

2: What ingredients would the girl prefer to use in her cooking?

Speaker 3: Mum works late, so I cook our meals during the week. There are six of us – my parents and grandparents, my brother and me. I never use anything made from milk, like [ ] and cream, because my dad can't eat those things, though I don't mind that. Really, I'd like to cook with chillies and [ ], but my grandparents hate [ ] food, so I usually cook quite plain dishes, which they prefer. I generally add lemon juice and a bit of [ ], especially with fish.

3: Which product do they select for their art project?

Speaker 4: So we have to prepare a magazine [ ] for a food product. Shall we choose our favourite chocolate [ ] – or a packet of crisps maybe?

Speaker 5: Both pretty boring ideas! What about that juice we both like? We could show all the different fruit it contains – very colourful.

Speaker 4: Yes, but that sounds like loads of work to me.

Speaker 5: OK, let's try your first [ ] then. I don't want to do the crisps.

4: What does the boy choose for his dinner?

Speaker 6: Billy, I'm thinking of just making [ ] tonight. Is that OK with you?

Speaker 7: Oh, Mum! I've had football practice and I'm really hungry! Can I make some [ ] instead?

Speaker 6: I suppose so, or I could get Dad to pick up fish and chips on the way home. You'd like that!

Speaker 7: But he won't be back for ages! Why don't I cook for myself now and then you two can have soup later?

Speaker 6: OK.

5: Which cake do they agree to make for Sally?

Speaker 8: I've got the main [ ] for Sally's birthday cake – eggs, flour, butter, sugar – but which [ ] shall we follow? The orange cake looks interesting.

Speaker 9: Actually, it looks a bit [ ]. Anyway, Sally's keen on chocolate – have you got any?

Speaker 8: No, but I could easily go out and buy some. That'd be better than a plain cake with jam in the middle, wouldn't it?

Speaker 9: Definitely. We'll go for that one then.
