Today's Lesson

I love being a teacher. It's amazing to watch my students grow and learn every day. I think that lessons should be fun and simple. Today we is learn new vocabulary. I am teach my students the names of different objects in the classroom. For example, two students is write the names of classroom objects on the board. Four students searching for things you can write with like pens, pencils and markers. One student am making a list of all the objects found in the class. Some students are sit on chairs and search for classroom objects in their desks. Other students are read the names of objects and write them in their notebooks. Today's lesson is good because students are discover new words. The students is having fun doing it. Some students are also drawing the classroom objects in their notebooks and talking about them. It's nice to see the students talking about the new vocabulary they learning. I hope that they continue to learn like this.
