Matilda

Alice's Adventures in Wonderland

Oliver Twist

This story is about a young girl who falls through a rabbit hole into a fantasy world. She meets very strange creatures there.

It is a story about a young girl who loves books. She is a very talented child; she can read books and magazines at a very young age. Unfortunately, her parents do not understand her because they are not very smart. They like watching television more than reading books.

The story is about a boy without parents. He is very poor and hungry. He escapes from his masters and travels to London, where he joins a gang of young criminals. Their leader is the old criminal Fagin.

"Please, sir, I want some more."

The master was a fat, healthy man; but he turned very pale. He gazed with stupefied astonishment on the small rebel for some seconds; and then clung for support to the copper. The assistants were paralyzed with wonder, the boys with fear.

"What!" said the master at length, in a faint voice.

"Please, sir," replied [redacted], "I want some more."

'Daddy,' she said, 'do you think you could buy me a book?'

'A book?' he said. 'What d'you want a flaming book for?'

'To read, Daddy.'

'What's wrong with the telly, for heaven's sake? We've got a lovely telly with a twelve-inch screen and now you come asking for a book! You're getting spoiled, my girl!'

The rabbit-hole went straight on like a tunnel for some way, and then dipped suddenly down, so suddenly that [redacted] had not a moment to think about stopping herself before she found herself falling down what seemed to be a very deep well.
