IS SERIES WATCHING CHANGING OUR HABITS?

A
Have you ever wasted a sunny day indoors watching your favourite series for hours and hours? Or gone to bed too late because you had to watch 'just one more' episode? If so, you're not alone. 'Binge-watching', which means watching several episodes of a series at a time, is increasing. According to a recent survey people who were asked about their TV viewing habits, when asked why they binge-watched, they said it was because they felt social pressure to be up to date with the story of the series. Some others said watching several episodes without a pause makes it easier to follow the very complex plots.

B
New technologies, such as streaming, have transformed our viewing habits, allowing us to watch what we want, when and where we want, all of this without the annoying distraction of commercial breaks. Cost is also a factor: a monthly subscription to Netflix can be afforded by most people.

C
The survey also indicates an interesting change in opinion towards TV watching. When respondents were asked whether they thought binge-watching was a negative thing, only one-third said it was, whereas when asked the same question a year ago, the majority of people (two-thirds) considered it a bad thing.

D
The more positive attitude towards TV viewing may be because of the improved quality of the stories. In the past, TV series were seen as poor quality and culturally inferior. This is no longer true. In the past, TV viewers were known, disapprovingly, as people who spent hours and hours watching TV very passively. Now, however, since people are actively choosing what they watch, they watch with an objective in mind. Younger viewers, especially, watch more critically, frequently commenting on the quality of the acting, the casting, the camera angles. The passive TV viewer has woken up.

Task A Match the heading to the paragraph. There are two extra headings.

1	A new point of view
2	Why do people think it's a negative habit?
3	What are the benefits?	B
4	Why do people do it?
5	What has caused the change?
6	There's nothing new.

Task B Find words in the text that mean:

1 making it possible (verb) _____

2 not any more (adv) _____
