A recent report was based upon a survey asking 2,000 young people about their cell phones. The report showed that around half of them use their phones for non-talking activities. These activities included listening to music, playing games, and watching TV.

What will kids use their cell phones for in the future? Some people think that more and more kids will use their cell phones to make videos. Video cameras might become obsolete. The way we listen to music is also going to change. Most young people listen to music on streaming apps. Not many young people use CD players anymore.

A recent article reported what teenagers think about music technology in the future. Twenty-five percent believed that there will not be any CDs in five years' time. Kids are very social. They use electronic devices to communicate or to play with their friends. Research results show that kids spend an average of 7-8 hours a day online. Much of this time is spent texting with friends or playing games over the Internet.

In this technological world, kids are getting better at multitasking. For example, many young people listen to music while they do their homework. In fact, a lot of people think it is good for children to use the computer. They believe that computer games can help children think, study, and learn better.

Portable electronic devices will become cheaper, more accessible and with more functions. This means that kids in the future will be able to do their homework, read books, and send e-mails while traveling to school.
