What's the missing word? Put just, yet or already into the gap.

1. At the job centre

Work coach: Have you applied for any jobs this week?

James: I have sent my CV to Aldi because they are advertising Christmas jobs. I have written to ASDA about my interview but I haven't had a reply ……..

Work coach: Have you heard anything about the job at Lidl ...?

James: Yes, they have ….. contacted me and they have invited me to an interview.

2. With the children

Mum: Have you tidied your room ……?

Son: Mum, I've only ……. come home!

Mum: Have you done your homework?

Son: No, I haven't done my homework ….. I'll do it after football practice.

Mum: I have told you so many times! You must do your homework first!

Son: But I've …... had such a hard day! I've been to school, I've spoken to my teacher about my exam, I've begun my new French class and I've ….. bought my dad a card for his birthday tomorrow.

Mum: It's your dad's birthday tomorrow! I've completely forgotten!

3. At the GP

GP: What seems to be the problem?

Anna: I have hurt my hand. I'm worried that I've broken it.

GP: Have you taken anything for the pain?

Anna: Yes, I have ……. taken some paracetamol but it hasn't helped …....
