

Talented women from history

1 Computer Countess

Ada, Countess of Lovelace (1815 – 1852) was the beautiful daughter of the well-known English poet, Lord Byron. When she was eighteen, she saw a 'calculating machine' – a primitive computer – and talked to its inventor, Charles Babbage. Ada was fascinated and began to work with him. She thought of mathematical calculations for his new machine and these were the world's first computer programs. Ada published her work but only used her initials because in those days women couldn't be scientists.

2 A forgotten Composer

Louise Farrenc (1804 – 1875) came from a family of artists but decided to take up music. At seventeen, she married another musician and they had a daughter. In her twenties, Louise started to compose music and her works were popular around Europe. In 1842, she became the first woman teacher at the Paris Conservatory. Louise's daughter was a brilliant pianist, too and often performed her mother's works. When her daughter died young, Louise stopped composing music for ever.

3 George or Mary Ann?

George Eliot was a great nineteenth-century novelist but George's real name was Mary Ann Evans (1819 – 1880). Mary Ann couldn't leave home until she was thirty because she had to look after her father. After his death, she went to London and became a writer. Mary Ann used a man's name because people did not take women writers seriously. Mary Ann believed in women's rights and her novels about life in small English towns look at women's place in society.

4 Mexican Magic

Frida Kahlo (1907-1954) was born in Mexico City. She had polio when she was young but studied to be a doctor. Then one day, while she was travelling on a bus, there was a terrible accident. When Frida was recovering in hospital, she started painting and worked with bright colors. In 1927, she married the painter, Diego Rivera. Frida was famous as his wife but her paintings only became very well-known after her death. After the accident, Frida was often in pain and you can see this in her strong, colourful self-portraits.
