OUR BEST FRIENDS

When you call somebody your best friend, you can usually 1 ..... on him or her. That's what I thought when I met Tom. He seemed to be a very reliable person, we liked 2 ....., and we were really good friends. We were both swimmers, and we wanted to take 3 ..... in the swimming championships in France. The only problem was money, as usual. Our school swimming club was rather poor; our parents weren't very wealthy, and if we wanted to go to France, we had to earn some money 4 ..... The championships were supposed to be held in September, which was a good thing as we had the whole summer holiday to find a job and to earn the money we needed to 5 ..... all of our expenses. Tom quickly found a job as a waiter in a small restaurant at the seaside. He was lucky since people usually gave tips, and he could get something like a double salary. I wanted to ask if they needed perhaps another waiter in that place, but Tom said he had already asked and they didn't. I 6 ..... looking for a job myself and finally I found a place where I could work as a waiter too. It was also at the seaside. We couldn't wait until the school year was over. I went to the seaside, found a nice, small restaurant and, to my surprise, I met... Tom. It turned 7 ..... that it was the same place! I also learnt that Tom hadn't told me they were looking for 8 ..... waiter as he thought I was more handsome, and female customers would give me higher tips than him. Was he a real friend? I guess not...
