I. Correct the particles where it is necessary:

1. Courage is what takes you to stand out and speak, it's also what it takes you to sit for and listen.
2. You have enemies? Good. It means you've stood round for something in your life.
3. We are masters of the unsaid words, but slaves of those we let slip down .
4. When I'm abroad I always make a rule to criticize or attack the government of my own country. I make out for lost time when I come home.
5. A lie gets halfway around the world before the truth has a chance to get in paints behind.
6. I am never going to have anything more to do without politics or politicians. When this war is up I shall confine myself entirely to writing and painting.
7. Success is never falling into . It's getting up and moving on with a swing in your step.
8. If you're going on hell, keep going.
9. Men occasionally stumble over the truth, but most of them pick themselves down and hurry off us if nothing ever happened.
10. We shall never surrender, and even if, which I do not for a moment believe, this island or a large part of it were subjugated and starving, then our Empire beyond the seas, armed and guarded by the British Fleet, would carry out the struggle, until in God's good time, the New World, with all its power and night, steps forth to rescue and liberation of the old.
11. Never mind. Win or lose, sink or swim, better die that submit to tyranny and such a tyranny. And I do not dissociate myself from them. But I can assure them that our professional advisers of the three services unitedly advise that we should carry on the war, and that there are good and reasonable hopes of final victory.
