Section G. Reading Comprehension.
VI. Read the passage carefully. Then, answer the questions.

Annie's biggest problem was her little sister, Jenny. Jenny always drew on her homework and snatched her toys. However, being the older sister, Annie always forgave her. Their mother comforted Annie by saying that Jenny would behave better in time to come.

One afternoon, Annie was carefully painting a portrait of herself for an Art competition in school. Jenny was busy playing with her toys, allowing Annie to work on her painting peacefully.

After making the final stroke, she stared at the finished portrait with a smile. She was satisfied with it. She certainly deserved a short break on the computer.

When Annie returned after her break, her jaw dropped. She was shocked to find Jenny making long and bold brush strokes on her portrait. There was also paint splattered all over the floor.

"Jenny!" shouted Annie. "What have you done? I will never forgive you for this!" At the sight of Jenny's wobbling lips and watery eyes, Annie felt guilty for her harsh words.

" I'm sorry, Annie. I promise not to touch your work again. I'll clean the mess too," Jenny apologised while sobbing.

"Okay. Just don't do this again," Annie gave in although she knew Jenny would do something similar again. She could not wait for Jenny to grow older.
