

Match the headings (below) with the texts;

Yes, the photos of Barack Obama with cigarettes in his mouth were Photoshopped hoaxes. But the President—who on June 22, 2009, signed the Family Smoking Prevention and Tobacco Control Act intended to discourage teenagers from smoking—admitted to CBSNews.com the next day that he is "a former smoker" who still "falls off the wagon" at times. Photo by Getty Images.

According to The Daily Mail, American Idol judge Simon Cowell owes his bronzed skin to a professional tanning salon inside his Beverly Hills home. The salon reportedly boasts one full-length tanning bed and a smaller booster facial tanner—for sunny touch-ups between episodes, perhaps. Photo by Getty Images.

La Lohan has been called out time and again for her lack of punctuality—specifically during the filming of the 2007 comedy-drama Georgia Rule, and for court dates following her second DUI. In fact, according to MSN.com, Lohan arrived an hour and a half late for her October 2009 progress review hearing—just before the judge tacked on another year of probation to her previous three-year sentence. Photo by Retna.

Spears' Cheetos-and-Frappuccino weakness has been long documented in the tabloids, thanks to the ever-present paparazzi. However, of late, the pop star has made more headlines for reclaiming her pre-breakdown body, thanks to a combination of regular workouts and a kicked-to-the-curb junk food habit. Photo by Getty Images.

We think we can let the beautiful South African-born actress and human-rights activist slide for this one. After all her charitable efforts, including the creation of the Charlyze Theron Africa Outreach Project (CTAOP)—an initiative to help build a community-wide soccer program in Umkhanyakude District schools—she certainly deserves her share of deep-fried comfort. Photo Copyright Columbia Pictures. All Rights Reserved.

On May 27, 2008, a paparazzo flagged down actor Kevin Connolly outside a Hollywood Coffee Bean and Tea Leaf on Sunset Boulevard and accused him of being a coffee addict. Connolly's reaction? A hearty confirmation. (He blamed the habit on early call times for the filming of HBO's Entourage.) Photo courtesy of HBO.com.

For the film My Sister's Keeper, 37-year-old Cameron Diaz teamed up with 13-year-old Abigail Breslin. To prepare for one specific scene, Diaz "taught [Breslin] how to say the F-word in every way possible," according to osoblog.tv—perhaps not such a tall order for the reportedly potty-mouthed blonde. Photo by Getty.

Lexis:

- a former smoker
- fall off the wagon
- at times
- sunny touch-ups
- lack of punctuality
- tack on another year of probation
- ever-present paparazzi
- slide for (this bad habit)
- slide back into her old bad habits
- deserve a share of (french fries)
- accused the actor of being a coffee addict
- blame the habit on early call times
- team up with my classmate
- in every way possible
- a potty-mouthed person

Headings:

Cameron Diaz—Cursing

Charlize Theron—Fried Food

Simon Cowell—Tanning

Obama—Smoking

Lindsay Lohan—Tardiness

Britney Spears—Junk Food

Kevin Connolly—Coffee Addiction

Match facts with names:

This person has already been accused of the same crime before

This person confirmed the information suggested by reporters

This person sometimes goes back to his bad habits

This person is a judge on a very popular American TV show

This person has physical exercise on a regular basis

This person does a lot of charity work

This person taught another one for one specific scene

Cameron Diaz

Simon Cowell

Lindsay Lohan

Charlize Theron

Kevin Connolly

Britney Spears

Barack Obama