Danny's book, Takes On His Telling It Like A Kid, bring back some lucid memories of a child's past. Victor remembered he, too, has a lot of picturesque books. He love reading and often read for hours till he was in Primary Four. Than, Victor hated it because they were just words. Forward to the future, Victor read mostly Doraemon, Lau Fu Zi (Old Master Q) and one in a while, Lat. He also read a lot of Ladybird and Enid Blyton book. There were titles such as Chicken Little and Treasure Island, under the abridged version though. When Danny reminisced about this favoured pastimes, Victor recalled his own pastimes. He recalling cycling in the rain, burning ants and playing with sand. Nowadays, kids did not indulge in these fun games anymore. If the rain stopped and there were droplets falling for the awning of the house, the fun started. Victor would take a cup and run left and right to collect the droplets. Like Danny, Victor swore that it was his early version of Space Invaders because back then, when Victor was a kid, they did not have video games.	e.g. brought (a) _____ (b) _____ (c) _____ (d) _____ (e) _____ (f) _____ (g) _____ (h) _____ (i) _____ (j) _____
