Do you really think museums are boring?

Young people don't usually go to museums in their free time because they think museums are not fun. But is this true? I am going to tell you about my own experience.

Madame Tussauds is a huge *wax museum in London. Marie Tussaud opened it in 1835. Now you can see wax figures of historical and royal personalities for example Donald Trump, celebrities like Ariana Grande or Cristiano Ronaldo and also famous criminals!

My family and I went there two years ago and it was really cool. You can take photographs of your idols. The only disadvantage is that the ticket is a bit expensive. It costs £ 29.

If you are interested in art The Louvre Museum is the place for you. It is the biggest art museum in the world and a historic monument in Paris, France. It is also the most visited museum. 9.6 million people visited The Louvre in 2019.

When the museum opened in 1793 there were 537 paintings. Now you can see 38,000 objects from prehistory to the 21st century.

Next year I am going to visit The Louvre with my best friend to celebrate our 15th birthday.

Do you like History? I love it. Last year our History teacher took our class to the MAPI (Museo de Arte Precolombino e Indígena) in the old city, Montevideo. It was fantastic. It opened in 2004. There are different collections of objects of indigenous cultures. You can also visit the website to see some of the objects or watch MAPI Virtual, the series on YouTube.
