Simon comes to the bank to help Victor.

Simon: Am I late? Traffic is bad today.

Victor: You're not late. It's only 10:15.

Simon: Oh, I'm fifteen minutes late, then.
I'm sorry.

Victor: Fifteen minutes is nothing.

Simon: In the United States, people are usually on time.

Victor: Really? Are you serious?

Simon: Yes, I am.

Victor: I'm surprised. Are people on time for everything?

Simon: For most things. They're on time for appointments.

Victor: Is this an appointment?

Simon: Yes, it is. I'm here to help you with the bank.

Victor: I'm confused. My doctor is never on time. She's always late.

Simon: That's different. Doctors are always late. They are very busy.

Victor: Is it necessary to be on time with friends?

Simon: It's not necessary, but it is polite.

Victor: Look. The time and temperature are on the clock outside the bank.
Is time always on your mind?

Simon: Yes, it is. "Time is money." Time is always on our minds.
