

FIRST AND SECOND CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

Drag the second part of the sentence next to the first.

I won't mention your name

I won't see my girlfriend for several months.

I'd travel round the world

they usually get good results.

We don't allow people to do the course

I'd go to the cinema with you.

I'll have to buy the book

I wouldn't come back.

If I decide to study abroad,

I'll tell her you called.

If I see her,

if I had the money.

If I wasn't so busy,

unless I can find it in the library.

If I went to study in Australia,

unless you want me to.

I'd take a taxi

if I could afford one.

If students come to class regularly,

unless they have the right qualifications.

Find and correct one mistake in each of these sentences. There may be more than one way to correct some sentences. Use full forms.

If I say that technology has not changed the way we study, I would be lying.

If I live near my school, I would go there by bicycle or even on foot.

If we study together, I think we would be able to test each other at the same time.

If we'll have any free time during the term, we can organise a school excursion.

If you'll have any problems on your course, please contact your tutor, who will sort them out.

If there will be something that interests you, do write back, and I'll do my best to tell you.

If I buy a computer, I would have to spend all day in front of it.

If we take a good rest, we would be full of energy and we could do everything better.

If you'll decide to stay until Christmas, you'll find Athens very exciting.

I'd like to say that if more people travelled by bike, the atmosphere will be better.
