

Spring

Name _____

COUNTING FLOWERS

How many?

A rounded rectangular box containing two rows of five small, identical flowers. To the right of the flowers is a large empty square box for writing the count.

A rounded rectangular box containing six scattered flowers of varying sizes and orientations. To the right is a large empty square box for writing the count.

A rounded rectangular box containing four flowers, each with a stem and two leaves. To the right is a large empty square box for writing the count.

A rounded rectangular box containing two large flowers with five petals each. To the right is a large empty square box for writing the count.

A rounded rectangular box containing nine small flowers scattered across the space. To the right is a large empty square box for writing the count.

A rounded rectangular box containing three flowers on stems, each with two leaves. To the right is a large empty square box for writing the count.

