Read Bob's email to his friend, Timmy. Then do the exercises on the next page.

Hi Timmy!

How are you? I went camping with my father and I want to tell you about it. My dad's been very busy with his work recently and I don't see him very often. So you can imagine how excited I was when he told me we would go camping!

We went to a beautiful campsite in the mountains. We had our own tent, but there were some other campers there who rented theirs. We usually go camping in the summer so camping in March was very different. It was very cold so my dad built a campfire with the wood we collected together from the forest.

On the first day we had eggs and bacon for dinner! I know what you're thinking – it sounds more like a breakfast than a dinner, right? But it was delicious because everything was made over the fire. After dinner my dad told me stories about his life when he was young. He has two older brothers and two younger sisters and they did a lot of funny things when they were young.

The next day we went fishing but we didn't catch any fish. So for lunch, we had some ham and cheese. After lunch, we packed our stuff and drove home. It was a short trip, but we had a wonderful time. Next time you come and visit me, we'll go camping together. We can go hiking on the mountain if you want. I've never done that before.

Bye for now!

Bob

Read the story.
Then do the exercises on the next page.

Once upon a time, there was a man and woman who were very poor. But they loved one another very much. The man worked hard in the fields and the woman cleaned people's houses. They made very little money – just enough to survive. But the woman had something every woman admired – long golden hair. It was the most beautiful hair anyone could imagine. And the man had something very valuable, too – a gold watch that used to belong to his grandfather.

One year at Christmas, the couple could not afford to buy a Christmas present for one another. They were very sad about this. But the woman decided that this year, she wanted to buy something special. "I will cut my hair and sell it. With the money, I will buy a gold chain for my husband's watch," she said to herself. And this is what she did.

But her husband was thinking the same thing. "I will sell my gold watch, and buy a beautiful diamond comb for my wife's hair." And this is what he did. So on Christmas Day, his wife gave him a chain for his watch, but he didn't have it any more. And he gave her a comb for her hair, but now her hair was short.

Years later, with their love, hard work and good luck, the couple became rich. But they never forgot the Christmas when each of them gave up what was most important for them for love.
