The Temple of Literature is often cited as one of Hanoi's most picturesque tourist attractions. Originally built as a university in 1070 dedicated to Confucius, the building is extremely well preserved and is a nice example: of traditional-style Vietnamese architecture. This ancient site offers a lake of literature, the Well of Heavenly Clarity, turtle steles, pavilions, courtyards and passageways that were used by royalty. Visiting the Temple of Literature, you will discover historic buildings from the Ly and Tran dynasties in a place that has trained thousands of doctors' graduate. It is now become a memorial to education and literature. Originally the university only accepted royal family members as students before opening its doors to brighter students. Successful graduates had their names engraved on a stone stelae which can be found on top of the stone turtles.
